

Question:

Write a PHP function named `apply Discounts` that takes an array of purchase amounts as input. Inside the function, loop through each amount, apply the appropriate discount using conditions, calculate the final price, and print the results.